Spring 2021 at the Department of Sociology – both online and campus-based teaching

Due to the increased spread of infection most of our courses and programmes at the Department of Sociology will be carried out using digital tools (online) during the spring semester of 2021,

Teaching that needs to be campus-based is conducted in adapted forms in order to follow the recommendations to reduce spread of infection.

We are striving to ensure that all courses will have campus-based elements again as soon as possible, but expect that the spring semester 2021 initially will be carried out mostly online.

Teaching will take place between 8 am and 6 pm.

We do our best to ensure that you will receive education of the highest possible quality, while we adapt the teaching format and our premises to limit the risk of the spread of infection.

When teaching is provided on campus it is necessary to follow the Swedish Public Health Authority’s regulations. A distance of at least 1.5 meters must be maintained between each person in a room at all times.

Lectures will be given online. Teaching with practical, laboratory or aesthetic elements as well as excursions, seminars and lessons in smaller groups may take place on campus, but will be adapted.

Note that the exact time is stated in the schedule. That means, lectures and seminars will begin at the exact time specified in the schedule (ie the so-called academic quarter will not be applied).

Please note: due to the situation regarding covid-19, certain changes in schedule and course format may be made at short notice. Thank you for your understanding!
