Welcome to Social Anthropology: Master of Science Programme!

Herein you will find the information you need to get started with your studies at the Department of Sociology at Lund University. This first part of the letter concerns the formal and/or administrative parts that you need to know, and at the very end follows information from the study adviser. There you will also get an overview of the entire programme.

The first course on the programme is SANN03: Theory and Method Course (https://www.soc.lu.se/en/education/courses/master-courses/social-anthropology-theory-and-method-course), which starts at August 31 with a mandatory introductory meeting. See further down in this letter for more specific information about the course, including how to register, where to find your schedule and much more.

Please note: As of today we are not 100% sure how much of the education will be held here on the campus as opposed to online, due to the ongoing pandemic. Parts of the programme will have actual lectures, but you must keep an eye on the schedule for the first course of the programme, as well as on the webpages of Lund University and the Department of Sociology, in order to know where to start and when.

As soon as all the schedules for the autumn semester are done, you can search for each course here: https://cloud.timeedit.net/lu/web/s1/

The main webpage for our department is https://www.soc.lu.se/en/

The programme is presented here:

and its syllabus can be found here:

Our main lecturers within the subject of Social Anthropology are Tova, Ulf and Christer, whose presentations can be found via the links below. For more specific information about which lecturers will be involved in your programme, please see the schedule for each specific course within the programme. Lecturers from other subjects, for example sociology, may be involved depending on your choices for the elective courses within the programme.

Tova Höjdestrand: https://www.soc.lu.se/en/tova-hojdestrand

Nina Gren: https://www.soc.lu.se/en/nina-gren

Information specifically for the first course of the programme follows:

Please keep in mind the above mentioned information regarding the Corona-situation.

SANN03 Social Anthropology, Theory & Methods Course, 15 credits

Elective course, as well as the first course on the Masters-programme in Social Anthropology

Course period: August 31 to October 30

As written above, you must consult the schedule as to when and where the mandatory introduction will be held. If you have questions about this or similar issues, you can always email me at either info@soc.lu.se or christian.landgren@soc.lu.se

Course registration and the Student Portal

You must register yourself for the course electronically. NB! If you don’t register you might lose your place on the course.

The course is open for registration between August 24 and August 30. If you need help with the registration, please send an e-mail to info@soc.lu.se.

To register for the course you have to have an active student account. To activate your student account, follow this link: https://passport.lu.se. You register yourself on the Student Portal, www.student.lu.se with your student ID. Student account support: Servicedesk@lu.se
How to register:

1. Go to www.student.lu.se
2. Log in with your student account username and password
3. Click on Registration, then Course/programme registration

4. Choose semester and click continue.
5. Tick the box of the course you wish to register for and click continue.

6. Accept and confirm.
7. You can click on “Show registrations” to view your confirmed registrations and confirm that this registration was finalized.

Cancellation

If you register and within three weeks decide not to follow the course, you can either go back to the Student Portal and report it or send an e-mail to info@soc.lu.se. If cancellation of registration comes later you will not be able to apply for the course again.

Regards,

Christian Landgren

Educational Administrator for Social Anthropology

https://www.soc.lu.se/en/christian-landgren

Welcome!

Student Office
Department of Sociology
Social Anthropology
Box 114, 221 00 Lund
Tel: +46 46 222 40 36
E-mail: info@soc.lu.se

Study Advisor:

Tel. +46 46 222 88 77
E-mail: studievagledare@soc.lu.se
To students admitted to the Master’s programme in Social Anthropology, start autumn 2020. Information from the Study Adviser.

Welcome to the Department of Sociology!

We are looking forward to meeting you in the Master’s Program in Social Anthropology this autumn semester, starting August 31.

ABOUT THE DEPARTMENT OF SOCIOLOGY

The Department of Sociology is located right in the heart of Lund, a few minutes away from the magnificent Lund Cathedral and also close to the central station. The campus area, filled with beautiful trees and architecture, is called The Paradise.

The campus offers plenty of study areas, cafés, restaurants as well as a number of other Social Science departments, the main University Library and the Library of Social Sciences.

The Department of Sociology at Lund University was founded in 1947. Social Anthropology was established in the department, 1973. The department of Sociology is part of the Faculty of Social Sciences. The Department has currently about 1 100 students and about 100 employees and holds two subjects: Sociology and Social Anthropology.

Research is conducted in a variety of fields, which is also reflected in our wide range of courses given both on campus in Lund and online. The department offer courses and programs on undergraduate, postgraduate and Ph.D. levels in both disciplines. You find the Department on Sandgatan 11, house G.
THE STRUCTURE OF THE PROGRAMME

The Master of Science Programme in Social Anthropology (SASAN) is a 2-year programme comprising 120 credits. The courses cover 30 credits in social anthropological theory, 30 credits in the theory of science and research methods (of which at least 7.5 credits in the theory of science and at least 15 credits in research methods) and a master’s thesis in social anthropology (30 credits). The remaining 30 credits consist of elective courses at Lund university or abroad.

The courses are studied sequentially, one at a time; this means that one course is concluded before the next one starts. The courses are studied in the following order:

Semester I
- Theory and Method Course, 15 credits (SANN03)
- Methods and Social Analysis, 15 credits (SOCN06) or Methods for Research in the Social Sciences, 15 credits (go to Graduate School's website for more info)

Semester II
- Modern Classics, 15 credits (SANN13)
- Ethnography in Social Science, 15 credits (SANN04) or Selected courses in theory of science and research methods, 15 credits (go to Graduate School's website for more info)

Semester III
- Internship, 15 credits
- Ethnographic Fieldwork, 15 credits
  Or,
- Elective courses/Study abroad, 30 credits

Semester IV
- Master’s thesis, 30 credits

THE FIRST COURSE OF THE PROGRAMME

The introductory Theory and Method Course, 15 credits (SANN03) deals with different and current theoretical topics. The teaching consists of lectures, workshops, supervision and seminars. Examination is done by group and individual assignments. Each assignment is presented written and orally at seminars.

Teacher is Dr. Ulf Johansson Dahre. Dr. Dahre has been teaching for almost twenty years in Social Anthropology. His research is currently focused human rights and museum anthropology. He has done extensive fieldwork in the Pacific.
Programme start information regarding registration, schedule and introduction day will be sent out in the end of June 2020.

If you for some reason cannot attend your studies in Social Anthropology this year, we would be very grateful if you could tell us as early as possible by notifying in your account at Universityadmissions.se - in the Application tab.

Best regards,

Britt Marie Rönn Study adviser, Department of Sociology
Email: studievagledare@soc.lu.se
Phone: +46 46 2228877